STEWART ACKNOWLEDGES AUTHORSHIP

Says He Prepared the Anti-Carter Resolutions For the Home Rule Representatives.

T. McCants Stewart was the author of the Carter governorship resolution which were drawn for passage in the House. The resolutions have been stowed away somewhere for five or six days. It is stated, however, that they will eventually appear on the clerk's desk.

Stewart admitted when asked this morning that he had drawn the resolutions and said that they were drafted at the request of a majority of the House and that they represented his own views. Stewart says there are a number of other men who are preferable to Carter. Stewart mentioned J. P. Cooke, H. P. Baldwin, H. E. Cooper, J. G. Pratt, S. M. Damon and others for governor, and added:

"As a choice of all elements, Republican, Democratic and Home Rule, Judge Estee is the only man for the place."

The notice of stockholders in incorporated companies is particularly directed to the following remarkable statement of facts.

There is one corporation in the islands which has been doing business for over ten years and which is not affected by either hard times or flush times; its withdrawing stockholders have always received not only every dollar paid in on their stock, but good and substantial accumulated profits. It is called the Pioneer Building & Loan Association of Hawaii, and has just moved its office to No. 122 King street.

DOLE SAYS SIXTY DAYS

THE EXTRA SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE MUST END WITH THE SIXTIETH DAY UNLESS THERE IS AN EXTENSION—THE ORGANIC ACT PROVISION QUITE CLEAR ON THE SUBJECT.

There is no doubt in the mind of Governor Dole as to when the legislative session ends, and members who are figuring on the right to sit indefinitely until they pass appropriations will find that the executive will not recognize any such session. The governor stated this morning that it was quite clear from the Organic Act that sixty days was the limit of a session, unless there was an extension.

The executive read section 43 of the Organic Act, which states that each session shall be for sixty days, and said that it was quite clear on the subject. As to the other section, providing for an extra session for appropriations, the Governor stated that he did not think it modified 43. "The provision of section 43, which says that, 'each session of the legislature shall continue not longer than sixty days,' applies to this extra session," said the Governor, "and I do not think there is anything in the other section to change this. The old appropriations continue if the legislature does not make new ones."

THE VAG CAME BACK

An Occupant of Oahu Prison Who Has Elected To End His Days There.

Captain Henry of Oahu prison has in custody one of the champion vagrants of the world, in the person of one McElroy, who has settled down to a life of hard labor sentence for refusing to work. McElroy says he expects to die with his stripes on, as work in jail is the best thing he has been able to find in a roving life of nearly forty years and having found a good thing he believes in sticking to it.

McElroy was first arrested two years ago, for vagrancy. The police thought they were teaching him a salutary lesson, but they weren't. McElroy was given three months by Judge Wilcox, for vagrancy, the judge remarking that after an experience with prison labor McElroy would probably be ready to tackle something outside and work for his living.

The judge was mistaken, however. When McElroy got out he wandered back in two days, gave himself up as a vag, saying he would not work, and he was duly accommodated with six months' hard labor. The six months had no more effect, for he repeated the dose and he has been in jail ever since, except during an interval when he was shipped out of the country. "The vag came back," however, and he is still a happy member of a chain gang.

McElroy appears to be sincere in his peculiar taste. He frankly says that the life suits him and the job is satisfactory. There is nothing to worry about, meals come regularly, beds and clothes are provided and there is no trouble over paying rent. It is a steady, regular job, and what more could a man want?

The steady vag had an imitator last night in the person of Manuel Freitas, who wandered into the station in an apparently weak condition and said he hadn't eaten for three days. He is a quite husky Portuguese but he was taken in and fed and booked for vagrancy.

$200,000 ALLOWED

THE HOUSE REFUSES TO APPROPRIATE $400,000 FOR RE-ORGANIZATION OF THE WHARF SYSTEM OF HONOLULU AND VOTES HALF THE AMOUNT AFTER A MORNING OF DEBATE OVER IT.

Four hundred thousand dollars for "reorganization of wharf system, Honolulu," was the first item in the loan bill, which was taken up by the House this morning in committee of the whole, with Andrade in the chair. Discussion of the item lasted all the morning and it finally passed at $200,000.

Kupieha made the motion to reduce the item. Harris replied that he would rather see the item cut out altogether than reduce so that it would be useless. "The idea is to make wharves large enough so that any vessel on the Pacific will be able to enter our harbor," said Harris. An appropriation of $200,000 will be money thrown away, because it will be useless.

Pacle produced a Washington departmental report and said that Congress had appropriated $250,000, but was called down by Harris and Chillingworth, who said that the appropriation had never passed. He was not troubled by the correction, however, but went on to say that he favored $200,000.

Vida and Fernandez spoke of the Hackfeld wharf, and Harris stated that it was impossible for big steamers to use it because the harbor was not dredged and they could not get to it. There was a discussion of plans for the proposed improvements and the clerk was instructed to ask the Superintendent of Public Works for the plans.

Harris, Chillingworth and others made arguments for the item as in the bill, urging its great importance to the commerce of the port and the future of the islands. A motion was made just before noon, after the argument had lasted all morning, to refer the item to a special committee, but the motion was lost by the vote of Speaker Beckley. The House stood 13 to 13 and he voted No.

The motion to cut the item to $200,000 was then carried by 17 votes and the item was inserted in the bill.

Pali moved an adjournment to Friday while Nakaleka moved a recess to two this afternoon, and the recess motion carried.

NATIONAL GUARD IN CAMP

THE CIVILIAN SOLDIERS OF THE TERRITORY ARE UNDER UNITED STATES ARMY REGULATIONS FOR THE FIRST TIME AND WILL REMAIN SO FOR FIVE DAYS—FEW SWEETHEARTS OUT TO SEE THEM START.

The First Regiment, N. G. H., went into its first encampment under the new United States militia regulations this morning. The regiment was under command of Colonel Jones and turned out in very creditable number. Only 36 hours notice of the encampment was given by the military authorities to the regimental officers and, in consequence, the regiment was not out in its complete strength. Everything moved very creditably. The various divisions of officers, line, field and staff went about their duties promptly, and with the ready co-operation given by the men, succeeded in mustering the regiment promptly and in good strength this morning, ready for the trip to the camp near Camp McKinley.

The encampment will be for five days. It will be a very novel experience for the men and especially for the officers. The regiment is to be under the command and personal direction of Major McClellan, U. S. A., the commander of the United States post at Camp McKinley.

While the soldiers were at the Capitol grounds, the various government employees took the occasion to enjoy themselves. The numerous clerks and stenographers, several heads of departments and members of the legislature were at places on the building watching the men. In fact, if it had not been for the formidable number of nice looking woman stenographers and clerks about the place, the soldiers would have had few of the fair sex to bid them farewell.

With Berger's band playing all the route, the regiment rode in electric cars to the scene of the encampment. The camp is located at the Diamond Head side of the race track, and about fifty yards from the car line.

When Colonel Jones and his men arrived, it was discovered that the commissary stores had not put in an appearance and few tents had been put up. Lieutenant H. Newton, U. S. A., was present and took charge of the work of directing the regiment in setting up camp and making themselves comfortable. Colonel Jones waited on Major McClellan at Camp McKinley and reported that the regiment had arrived at the camping grounds.

Under the United States militia regulations under which the present encampment is being made, the regiment is under command of Major McClellan, the United States army officer. The object in having these encampments is to instruct the civilian soldiers in the work of practical camping and other details connected with active service. The regiment will be instructed by Major McClellan and the other regular army officers in guard duties, camp duties, messing of the companies, use of the equipment of the soldier, and field exercises. The field exercises will consist of marching of troops, formation of advance guard, use of advance guards, formation of rear guards. There will also be instruction in the detail of drawing rations and the use and preparation of the ration.

Part of the work began immediately after the regiment went into camp. Lieutenant Newton was kept busy telling the citizen soldiers how to act more soldierly and showing them how to help put the camp into proper shape. This afternoon Major McClellan sent a squad of men from Camp McKinley to Camp Kapiolani as the new camp will probably be called. The regular soldiers will show the amateurs how to set up the kitchens. The idea is to have separate company kitchens on the sea side of the camp.

Very little attempt will be made today to put the boys through much of the routine that is to be given them during the encampment. After the crowd make themselves comfortable it will be about time for taps. Tomorrow will probably be a sort of holiday on account of the races. But the training under direction of Major McClellan will commence in earnest Friday.

The intention of Major McClellan is to have his instruction done in the morning early. The work that the United States regulations will require of the men is not an especially picturesque style of drill and is not one that is apt to interest the general public. The afternoons will probably be devoted to special fancy drills by the regiment under command of their own officers. Guard mount will be held this afternoon. The afternoon exercises will probably not be held until after tomorrow.
